6 Nazi Attacks Hit Beachhead

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Germans have launched a strong attempt to break through Allied lines on the Anzio beachhead, striking at six points along the American-British defense perimeter, the headquarters announced today, as violent fighting continued in the ruins of Cassino.

The fiercest of the beachhead attacks came in the area north and west of Carroceto (Aprilia) where heavy fighting continued as British forces sought to stem enemy plunges.

Three of the enemy thrusts were directed against American positions west of Cisterna but they were beaten back and the doughboys recaptured some ground.

Although the Americans seized the initiative in gaining some ground west of Cisterna an Allied headquarters spokesman said the position of the beachhead as a whole was a defensive one, with the Germans probing the whole perimeter.

GERMAN FIRE INCREASES

Allied air forces struck heavily at German gun positions, communications and other targets just in front of the beachhead line, but these apparently did not prevent the Germans from building up their strength. The violence of the German artillery fire was increasing and the pressure of the German attacks was mounting.

The fighting at Cassino went into its seventh fiery day, with no rest for either side.

Under the grim canopy of smoke and dust from mortar and artillery fire, the Germans clung to the greater part of the town, following orders to resist to the bitter end.

German and American tanks engaged in short, sharp clashes at point-blank range. Doughboys with grenades crept among the stones to stab, shoot and kill the foe concealed in dugouts and ruined buildings. The Germans thus lost a few strongholds.

BATTLE NEAR MONASTERY

Northwest of the town the Americans slowly approached the crest of Mt. Cassino after having reached a point at one time within 75 yards of the ancient monastery at the peak.

This hill was being used by the Germans as the keystone of their defense of Cassino at its foot, and the Americans were showering one side of it with artillery and the other with bombs as they worked their painful way through pillboxes and emplacements held by the Germans.

The Germans even put in counterattacks both north and south of Cassino to relieve their position, striking up Mt. Albaneta, a mile and a half northwest of the town, where they were repulsed.

Below Cassino they struck in the mountainous sector of Mt. Ornito, but on this Garigliano river front the British also threw the Germans back and made slight gains.

Japs Abandon 10,000 in Trap

By CLINTON GREEN

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEARL HARBOR, Feb. 10 (INS)—From strengthened positions in captured Kwajalein atoll, American warships and planes pounded at other Marshall Islands' bases today with no opposition.

Since they steamed into the heart of the enemy's Mid-Pacific stronghold 11 days ago, U. S. invasion forces neither have sighted nor been attacked by a Jap plane or man o'war.

On the day of the first landing on Kwajalein, Jan. 31, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced in a communique, a single U. S. destroyer sank four Jap cargo ships with gunfire.

The destroyer was identified as the U. S. Burns, skippered by Commander Donald T. Eller of Richmond, Va. The doughty greyhound was revealed to have sunk a tanker, a medium cargo vessel and two smaller craft, the entire strength of an enemy convoy.

Meantime, the Fourth Division Marines and troops of the Army's seventh who completed occupation of Kwajalein atoll continued their grim task of hunting for hidden Jap snipers and preparing for assaults against enemy garrisons on other atolls.

It was estimated that there were 10,000 Japs trapped on Wotje, Maloelap, Mille and Jaluit atolls along the eastern flank of the Marshalls.

Open to constant attack from the sea and air, the doomed garrisons face a choice of capture or death.

Huon Cleanup Drive Pushed by MacArthur

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 10 (AP)—Australian troops pushing up the New Guinea northeast coast are expected to make contact soon with American troops only seven miles away, virtually ending the Huon peninsula campaign which began five months ago.

An Australian officer at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters today expressed expectation of contact of the two forces and commented "the Jap is thoroughly beaten."

Union of the two forces may produce an Allied drive on the Japanese coastal base at Madang, about 60 miles along the coast northwest of Saidor.

Allied Pilots Hint Japs Have Evacuated Madang

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (INS)—Reports of Allied bomber pilots indicate the possibility the Japanese have evacuated Madang.

Pilots returning from a Wednesday raid on Madang said antiaircraft units were silent.

New Pacific Smash Hinted by Forrestal

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN NEW GUINEA, Feb. 10 (INS)—Even bigger offensives than the one that crushed the Japs on Kwajalein atoll, which employed the greatest naval armada known to history, were hinted today by Undersecretary of the Navy James Forrestal.

Arriving at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, he praised the "hero of Bataan" for turning the Southwest Pacific from a defensive to an offensive theater.

Report All Jews In Pinsk Slain

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Polish Telegraph Agency said today the entire Jewish population of Pinsk and its surrounding towns and villages have been massacred by the Germans.

Pinsk, a manufacturing town in eastern Poland, had a peacetime population of 32,000, the majority Jews.

Big Air Battle As Yanks Again Rip Brunswick

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP)—U. S. heavy bombers today attacked targets at Brunswick in central Germany. Fortresses flew the 450-mile path to the German manufacturing center, and the Berlin radio declared savage fighting developed.

An International News Service reportt quoted DNB as saying:

("A big air battle developed this morning when strong American bomber formations intruded over northwest German tterritory. German defenses engaged the enemy planes before the bombers reachd the target area an dinvolved them in violent aerial combat.")

At the same time Liberator bombers smothered the big Nazi fighter base at Gilze-Rijen, Holland, and strong forces of U. S. Marauders flew against military installations in northern France.

K. O. FIGHTERS

The Gilze-Rijen attack probably knocked out many enemy fighters which would have been in the air against the Brunswick-attacking Fortresses had the Dutch fighter base been left undisturbed.

No figures on planes shot down on the Brunswick attack, or on Fortress losses, were available immediately from the U. S. airforce. On a trip Jan. 11 to Brunswick, Oschersleben and Halberstadt the Yank forces lost 60 heavy bombers but shot 152 Nazi fighters from the sky.

NEW DAYLIGHT SWEEPS

Several aircraft parts assembly plants are situated at Brunswick, including the Brunswick-Waggum Mello assembly factory which was hard hit previously.

The Marauders hammered at installations backing up the Nazis' Atlantic wall in northern France for the third straight day after flying 550 sorties in 48 hours without a single loss.

The extended daylight sweeps across the Channel began immediately after RAF Mosquito bombers ranged over unspecified targets in the western Reich last night for their sixth penetration of Germany this month.

NAZI FRONT IN RUSSIA CRUMBLES

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 10 (AP)—Germany's once all-powerful eastern front was crumbling at many points today under the staggering sledge-hammer blows of seven Russian armies.

In the lower Ukraine, the Nazi retreat approached a rout as the tentacles of a great Red Army pincers closed on disorgarized remnants of between 10 and 15 battered German divisions trapped in the rain-soaked steppe country between Cherkasy and Nikopol, 200 miles to the south.

German dead littered the battlefields as the combined Third and Fourth Ukrainian Armies under Gens. Tolbukhin and Malinovsky turned the German retreat west of Apostolovo into a debacle, outflanked the great iron ore center of Krivoi Rog from the south and surged westward to imperil the Kiev-Nikolaev railway, sole remaining escape route left to the enemy.

In the Dnieper death circle, north and east of the towns of Shpola and Svenigorodka, the First and Second Ukrainian Armies under Gens. Vatutin and Konev stormed and captured the important town of Godorodische, 18 miles north of Shpola, killing hundreds of Germans.

In the far north, where Gens. Govorov and Meretskov were blasting their way westward toward the Leningrad-Warsaw railway stronghold of Luka from the east, the strongly-fortified towns of Ordezh and Bolshoye-Zamochye, respectively 18 and 13 miles northeast of the prime objective, fell to the onrushing Russian spearheads.

Bombing a Mistake

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 10 (AP)—The newspaper Stockholms Tidningen, commenting on German assertions that British planes had bombed the 900-ton Swedish Red Cross ship Wiril in the Aegean last Monday, said today it presumed the alleged attack resulted from a mistake.

Waltham Captain Gets Guns to Atoll

ENNUEBING ISLAND, Kwajalein, Feb. 1 (delayed) (INS)—Marine guns, marking the first use of artillery in attacking a Pacific atoll, blanketed the shores of Namur and Roi before waves of leathernecks swarmed ashore.

The men landing on Ennuebing found the tremendous surf a greater danger than the fire of Jap defenders. The difficult task of bringing the guns ashore cost several lives as the terrific breakers smashed landing boats. Two pack Howiters were also lost.

Capt. Ira D. Hardy, Waltham, Mass., was the hero of this artillery landing when he walked out through the heavy seas, carrying a line tied to his waist, to rescue men and equipment in a smashed boat.

Rumor of Draft Age Change Denied Here

Rumors that the draft age limit had been raised from 38 to 45 were denied today by State Selective Service officials who said they had "nothing official" on the reported change.

"That rumor pops up periodically," the spokesman said.

The rumor was first reported in New York where Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York city draft director, said he had "no official word" of any increase in the age limit.

Brookline Girl Of 12 Hunted As Runaway

Twelve-year-old Enid Levy, pretty honor student at the exclusive Choate School, Brookline, who disappeared from her Clark rd. home yesterday, fled with the aid of a boy friend, police and her parents reported today.

Neighbors saw her passing a brown overnight case and an orange hat box over a back fence to the boy, they said. They described him as even younger than the girl.

Her father, I. Roy Levy, president of a Boston sports apparel company, thinks the boy had figured only as an intermediary in Enid's flight.

"I think she is with an older person," he said.

POLICE CHECK SCHOOLS

Nevertheless, Capt. Joseph Mahoney of the Brookline police ordered a check of all schools in an effort to learn whether any boys were missing.

"I don't believe the boy is with Enid Levy," he said. "It may be that he consented merely to take her baggage over the back fence at her request."

Enid cut the last class at Choate School yesterday. She went home at 3 p. m. She had been in the house but a short time when she told the laundress she was "going out to play." She succeeded in getting her baggage out of the house while the laundress was occupied.

Her father said she had only $16 in cash, although she took a pearl necklace valued at $850 and wore a small diamond ring and a gold wrist watch.

2000 Chicago Workers End Strike

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 (AP)—Assured the National War Labor Board would consider their wage case, 2000 workers who struck Monday in 25 foundries in the Chicago area, returned to their jobs today.

Robert D. Phelps, chairman of the negotiating committee of the Chicago Foundrymen's Ass'n, employer organization, said all 25 plants were back in production. The foundries produced gray forge iron for war materials.

New Shoe Stamp Likely in May

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (INS)—Civilian supply officials indicated today that airplane stamp No. 2 for footwear may be validated in May, with adult consumers likely to get only one more pair of shoes during 1944.

Mothers were assured, however, that a break on childrens' and infants' footwear can be expected. Production is on the upgrade.

Officials said the shortage of childrens' shoes is more apparent than real. There are great quantities of low-priced, two dollar shoes available but consumers have passed them up, feeling they ought to use their ration coupons for higher-priced lines.

Shots Halt Suspect In Roxbury Break

Captured at gunpoint after a chase during which Police Sergt. John Todd fired five shots to halt him, Charles McGarty of County rd., Fall River, was arrested in Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, today after he was caught attempting to break into Canniff's tavern, Blue Hill vae.

Arraigned on a breaking and entering charge in Roxbury court, McGarty pleaded guilty and his case was continued to Feb. 17 for disposition. He was held in $1500 bail.

Three Revere establishments were swept by a two-alarm fire, with a loss of $8000, today. A variety store, barber shop and beauty parlor, all in a one-story business building on Beach st., suffered the damage.

Lake in London Sees 'Gen. Ike'

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (by transport mail)—London is a hodge-podge of discordant noise, ant-heap humanity and sad hilarity. London is a U. S. college town on mid-morning of the big objective football game.

London is a sheep-run of people with impatient purpose, who usually wind up in a "pub," or in squirming hordes within some hotel lobby with no other seeming purpose than to buzz, goggle and rock on their heels.

That's the surface side. For London is also the nerve center of this global war, and under its thrill-seeking skin, is intently serious and hard at work. One seldom sees the workers, who are as bees within the honeycomb. One only sees the drones.

Why anyone who has no official business in this vast, stone town should come here in wartime is for a psychiatrist to decide. It holds no beauty. It's grim even about its fun. For me, I came only to use its ETO (European Theater of Operations) as a springboard to jump off for another pool of U. S. troops, and now I am gratefully on my way back to the English hills and hollows, writing this opus with my toy typewriter in my lap, and under the curious though genteel, gaze of six fellow English travelers who sit, vis-a-vis, like reflections in a barber's mirror.

They show no surprise at the sight of a uniformed man playing a piano-forte rendition on his keyboard, limiting their emotion to mildly arched eyebrows. Yet, I know inside they are muttering the English equivalent of "Well, what the hell?"

The British are becoming "indoctrinated"—to use a rubber stamp Army word, to informal American behavior, even to becoming a bit informal themselves, and I have no doubt that, if I uncased a portable tub and gave myself a public sponge, they'd be properly polite about it, say "How odd," and tactfully find something absorbing in the passing scenery.

Just Discovers English

I confess that, after many years of visiting England, both in prewar and Blitz times, I am just discovering the English. The revelation is happy! For, since scouring the deep hinterlands in borrowed Army jeeps—and I fawncy I hold some kind of world-record for mileage covered in remote places—I realize that the Londoner is as misrepresentative of the British as the New Yorker is untypical of the entire U. S. A., or the Parisian of France.

The down country English have shown themselves—under duress, as tolerant and fraternal as any outland American, having generally accepted our boys at a friendly face-value and a mutual goodwill usually associated with a well-behaved version of a Loyal Order of Moose convention.

But London is another matter, and the population of the huge, sprawling town is, like all metropolitans, sophisticated, impersonal, disillusioned and more aloof than their country cousins. So's your Aunt Minnie in New York. But now, after taking a brutal

Legion Musters Force For 'GI Bill of Rights'

By DAVID CAMELON
Boston American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—The most sweeping, aggressive campaign in its history was announced by the American Legion today in support of its "bill of rights for GI Joe and GI Jane," which is now before Congress.

It is a campaign in which Legion officials ask every American citizen to join, if the millions of fighting men and women are to find happiness and security when they come back from war.

Francis M. Sullivan, executive director, of the Legion's national legislative committee, said:

"The Legion's 'bill of rights for GI Joe and GI Jane' must pass. The future of our fighting men—the future of the nation itself—depends on that. And it is up to every citizen to help."

In his recent tour of the country, National Commander Warren H. Atherton of the Legion was asked on every hand one question:

"What can I do to help our boys?"

PROGRAM LAID OUT

Here, the Legion says, is the answer according to Sullivan:

1—Radio—The American Legion is planning one of the greatest transcription radio networks that the country has seen. Dynamic messages, calling for the passage of the "Bill of Rights" will be sent to 400 of America's 600 radio stations.

2—Motion pictures — Special newsreel and trailer films are to be released to local theaters. The Legion has called on its members to:

"Make certain that your local movie house shows these special features."

3—Petitions — Members of Legion posts throughout the land are drafting petitions to Congress, calling for passage of this bill. The petitions will be displayed in hotel lobbies, cigar stores, everywhere the public gathers. The Legion asks citizens to help circulate them, and to sign them.

WILL CANVASS HOMES

4—Home canvasses—The Legion is planning, in many cities, to take petitions from door to door in a thorough canvass.

5—Letters—The Legion is calling on every citizen to write to their Congressmen, calling for passage of the Legion's bill.

6—Telegrams—They are asking all to send telegrams, as well, to their Congressmen, insisting that they vote for the bill.

7—Public Meetings—The local Legion post in each community is being asked to hold public meetings to which all will be invited urging passage of the "Bill of Rights."

Seek Toscanini Rule

Bushnell Goes To Grand Jury

Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell was ready today to present evidence to a Suffolk County grand jury he expressly held over for that purpose. He has not divulged the nature of the evidence.

A request the grand jury be held over was made of Dist.-Atty. William J. Foley by Asst. Atty. Gen. William F. Hayes, who is head of the criminal division of Bushnell's office.

The grand jury had finished its routine business for the month and was scheduled for dismissal when the surprise request for a holdover came from the attorney-general's office.

Meningitis Cases Hit New High Here

The State board of health announced today that meningitis reached an all time high in January with 94 cases reported. Seven-year average is six cases.

The board also revealed there were 646 cases of lobar pneumonia in January, almost double the figure for the same month a year ago.

NEW BUREAU PHOTOGRAPHS VET RECORDS

Mayor Tobin today joined with the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser in establishing a bureau where veterans of World War II may have their discharge papers and other service records photographed and the copies filed against possible loss of the originals.

This bureau will function in connection with the municipally-sponsored Veterans' Reception and Information Center in the Houghton & Dutton building, Tremont and Beacon sts.

At the center the veterans likewise are enabled, through cooperation of various service organizations and social agencies, to find answers to many of their problems and are aided in preparing forms and applications in connection with their cases.

A similar photographic service for protection of the veterans' records against loss has been set up by Massachusetts officials, through co-operation of the Veterans' Administration and veterans' organizations.

This service is available to World War II men and women who are residents of Massachusetts. Photographs are made by employes of the Secretary of State's office and are filed away in the State archives.

4 Bay State Men Navy Casualties

Four Massachusetts men were listed in a Navy casualty report today as follows:

George A. Knox, private, first class, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, wounded; mother, Mrs. Marcella M. Nevins, 73 Thayer ave., West Bridgewater.

Alexander Krotow, corporal, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, missing; wife, Mrs. Alexander Krotow, 81 Poplar st., Boston.

Daniel T. Lacey, private, first class, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, wounded; mother, Mrs. Theresa Lacey, 133 Pine st., Holyoke

Richard A. Maynard, private, first class, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, wounded; mother, Mrs. Hazel Maynard, 325 South st., Fitchburg.

'Take It Away!' Cry Solons on Tax Form

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—Members of Congress took a shuddering look at the new income tax return blanks today and one of them, Senator Cotton Ed Smith, prophesied that the next 34 days would evoke the biggest a-whooping and a-hollering yet heard from the taxpayers.

Seldom in human history, they agreed, have so many owed so much with so few chances of figuring out the bad news unaided by a squad of accountants equipped with liquid-cooled slide rules.

Those who stumbled through a searching query about fiduciary income on Page 1 of Form 1040 bogged down on amortizable bond premiums, Page 2. With reflex action, most of the lawmakers at that point tossed the return forms to their cringing secretaries.

Over a wedge of lemon pie (with meringue) in the Senate restaurant, Senator Smith, an unreconstructed South Carolina Democrat, boomed out that it looked to him like the bureaucrats were a-trying to mess up and confuse the people.

"Why, son," he said, "I think those blanks are a crime against the law-abiding citizens of this country. I believe one of the Senate page boys could make out a better one."

One question in particular on Form 1040 aroused the grudging admiration of the legislators for its phrasing. It asks:

"Was the rate of your salary or wages increased or decreased during your taxable year? (Yes or No) ....."

Sen. Radcliffe (D.) of Maryland, the only senator discovered to make out his own return, commented:

"Now isn't that a jackass question? Both the man who got a raise and the man whose wages were cut would have an answer 'Yes.'"

Charge of Beating Wife of Physician

SPRINGFIELD, Feb. 10 (INS)—Frank D. Manarite, 30, in custody of police, was charged today with beating Mrs. Isabelle Cort, prominent Springfield matron.

According to police, Mrs. Cort said she was in a cafe with Manarite and two other men and the former offered to drive her home. Instead of taking her to the Sheridan Hotel, where she has been living, he stopped his car at the track, forced her to leave and beat her.

Mrs. Cort is the wife of Dr. Parker M. Cort, Springfield physician.

ABSENT JUROR TIES VERDICT IN ESTALLA CASE

Confronted by an unprecedented situation, Suffolk superior court judges and counsel conferred today on the legality of accepting a sealed verdict in the Estella case with one juror absent because of illness.

The case was that involving William A. Estela, treasurer and manager of the J. A. Club, Eglesston sq., Jamaica Plain, and Joseph F. McGinnis of Commonwealth ave., Brighton, charged with conspiracy and receiving stolen goods.

At 5:30 p. m. yesterday the jurors sealed their verdict but when Judge John V. Spalding convened court today, Juror No. 3, George Stoner of St. Andrew rd., East Boston, was not present.

When a sealed verdict is opened in court the jury is then supposed to be asked:

"Is this the verdict you agreed upon before you departed?

All 12 jurors—or as many jurors as sat on the case—are required to reply, according to courthouse officials.

While Judge Spalding, Dist.-Atty. Foley, Asst. Dist.-Atty. Sullivan, who prosecuted, and the defense counsel, Herbert F. Callahan and Daniel J. Gallagher, conferred with Judge Nelson P. Brown, it was reported at the court house Stoner had been operated on this morning at Massachusetts General Hospital.

A check at the hospital, however, failed to find him there. When his home was called, his wife reported Stoner was confined to bed with a recurrence of a stomach ailment which had bothered him all during the trial.

Meanwhile the sealed verdict remained unopened.

Waltham Man Guilty In Gas Coupon Case

Arthur A. Coppola, Waltham gas station owner, was found guilty by a Suffolk County Superior Cuort jury today of receiving 850 stolen "R" gasoline coupons. Judge Edward F. Hanify said he would impose sentence later.

The state contended the coupons were part of the loot taken in a break into the Brighton rationing board offices last Sept. 10.

Bellboy Shifts Hotel Murder Story at Quiz

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 (INS)—Walter Shawke, the bellboy who was so close to Mrs. Adele Born Williams' room at the Drake hotel that he heard screams when she was fatally shot, changed his story today.

As the first outsider to enter the dying woman's room, Shawke's original statement, made a few minutes after the shooting, had been given great weight.

In it he said he saw a gray-haired woman walking down the corridor after the shooting. A few days later, he said he was not sure of the woman's appearance and might have described her from "the power of suggestion" as the result of overhearing conversations.

Today, he flatly said he saw no one.

Shawke's new statement came as both he and John Tierney Drake Hotel house detective, were questioned for two hours by investigators.

Police renewed their questioning of Drake Hotel employes following the declaration of Police Lieut. John Quinn at the inquest that he was convinced only two persons were in Mrs. Williams' room, the victim and her 28-year-old daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody.

RE-ENACTMENT BLOCKED

Both Mrs. Williams and her daughter declared the assailant was a gunwoman whom they found in the suite the evening of Jan. 19 when they returned from the hair-dresser's. Frank Starr Williams, second husband of the slain woman and an attache in the State Department at Washington, said he believed the slayer was a gem thief.

He said the gunwoman, probably knowing of the costly jewels Mrs. Williams owned, was surprised by Mrs. Williams and her daughter as the intruder was preparing to ransack the apartment.

Coroner A. L. Brodie has recommended that Mrs. Goodbody participate in a reconstruction of the crime in her apartment, which she has been unable to do so far because of her highly nervous state. The gunwoman fired at her, she said, before firing the bullet that killed her mother.

MORE POLICE HELP

Mrs. Goodbody was said to be planning to make a trip to California with her sister, Miss Elizabeth Born. The coroner said he had no objections to the trip but observed that when she was able to make the journey she probably would be well enough to aid the police in the reconstruction.

Lieut. Quinn's testimony caused great excitement at the inquest and the officer's superiors, supervising Capt. John Ryan and Capt. Frank Reynolds, said they did not share in his theory of the crime.

They said today, however, they not only would not interfere with the reconstruction of the crime but would give Quinn all the help he needed.

3750 Strikes U. S. '43 Mark

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (AP)—There were 3750 strikes in the United States last year, and the stoppages involved 1,900,000 workers, Secretary of Labor Perkins reports.

Reviewing 1943 work suspensions due to disputes, the Secretary said the strikes resulted in 13,500,000 idle man-days, and noted that "the ratio of lost time to total available working time was one-seventh of one per cent."

Comparative figures for other recent years listed 2968 strikes in 1942, 4288 in 1941, 2508 in 1940 and 2613 in 1939.

Recruit WAVES Await Orders At South Station

105 WAVES Leave Hub for Training

One hundred and five WAVES "ebbed out" from the South Station today for the U. S. Naval Reserve Training School, the Bronx, New York.

The apprentice seamen watched with admiration Ensigns Ferne Lunt and Kathleen Cummings of the Naval Procurement Office, Causeway st., who helped the enlisted girls board the train.

The ensigns celebrated today a year of service in the Navy since their graduation from officers' school, and many a new recruit remarked that they were fine examples of what a WAVE might hope to become.

A trio from Army families were among those leaving for service in the WAVES.

They were Eileen Bagnall, 24, of Washington st., Auburndale, formerly a laboratory technician in chemical warfare, whose father is Lieut.-Col. Harry W. Bagnall of the Boston Ordnance District; Frances Meehan, 28, of Larchmont rd., Salem, whose brother is an Army doctor in India. She has two sisters in the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps at Salem Hospital.

With them was Mrs. Mary McMorrow, 33, a widow, of Center st., Lowell, who has three brothers in the Army. She gave up her defense job as inspector in an ammunition plant to serve in the Navy.

Two sisters, Christina Malcolm, 22, and Esther, 20, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Malcolm of Wylie rd., Belmont, joined the Navy because they are the only children in the family.

"My father is a pipefitter at Fore River, and now at least we are all doing our bit," said Esther, who has been waiting impatiently to become of age to join the service.

Among others were Rita Filibert, 20, of Smith st., Lowell, an inspector in a sweater factory; Bernadette Coffin, 20, of West Eagle st., East Boston, bank clerk; Mary Duggan, 23, of Moreland st., Roxbury, a billing clerk, and Alice Kerivan, 20, of Chestnut st., Newton, a dressmaker.

Claim Wake Attacked

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (INS)—The Japanese Domei agency said today that a formation of eight American heavy bombers had attacked Wake Island.

A "withering screen of ack-ack fire" was said to have been used to repulse the American raiders.

Sailor's Pal Aids Police in Death Probe

A Navy pal of John C. Cruthers, seaman and son of a New York church sexton whose body was found in Friend st., North End, last Monday night, will today confer with police in an attempt to solve the mystery surrounding his death.

Convinced he was the victim of a brawl, police have toured the Scollay Square sector with a picture of the dead youth.

Attractive hostess of the Stage Door nightclub, Mary Ann Gillingham of Main st., Charlestown, reported Cruthers was at the club about midnight prior to his death.

She said he merely looked around as though in search of someone, then turned and walked out. He appeared to be lost or to have something on his mind, she stated.

18,000 Vote on Union At Hingham Shipyard

More than 18,000 Bethlehem-Hingham shipyard workers are voting by secret ballot today to determine who will represent them in the future negotiations with the Navy.

The workers have a choice of voting for the Bethlehem-Hingham Shipyard Independent Union, the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, CIO, or no union at all.

OTHER JOBS DENIED MILL STRIKERS

The Regional War Manpower Commission today declared that striking Fall River textile mill workers will be denied statements of availability which would enable them to obtain other employment.

Regional Director Joseph A. Smith and acting State Director James J. McCormack said that the agency's national policy holds that workers engaged in a strike or lockout or not working because of a strike or lockout are presumed to be employed.

"Such workers shall be presumed to be so employed until the government agency concerned with the adjustment of the dispute finds that it has ended," the statement continued.

The required period of 60 days which must intervene before a worker who quits his employment becomes eligible for a statement of availability will not begin until the strike is adjudged settled, the officials said.

The statement came as one more mill, that of the Richard Borden Co., ceased operations despite Army seizure of seven other plants on orders of President Roosevelt.

Col. Curtis G. Pratt, in charge of the seized factories, promised that "certain steps will be taken by the Army" but declined to elaborate on what can or will be done to deal with the "unprecedented" situation.

The independent unionists, who characterize their action not as a strike but a decision to "sever all connection with the textile industry," steadfastly refuse to work in any mill where a preferential CIO contract exists.

Giraud's Daughter Dies

BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 10 (AP)—A Zurich dispatch to the newspaper La Suisse said today that the daughter of French commander Gen. Henri Giraud had been transferred to Germany after her capture in Tunis by Axis troops and had died there last month.

FATHER OF 12 WOULD ENLIST—Charles A. Kenyon, 37, of Fall River, shown with his 12 children, has resigned his shipyard job and applied for enlistment in the Army. The children, ranging in ages from 11 months to 13 years, are (rear) Eleanor, Arthur, Robert, Charles, Lloyd and (front) Eunice, Russell, Allen, Elmer, Carole, Donald and Joan. War-Hating Finns Debate Peace Plan

STOCKHOLM Feb. 10 (AP)—Peace-hungry Finland, caught as a German ally in the middle of a war she never wanted, was reported seeking a way out today on the basis of an American warning to act now or take the consequences.

A Helsinki dispatch said there was a "possibility that preliminary decisions were taken" at a cabinet session last night and added that the Finnish public "knows how important" any decisions will be.

The independent Helsingin Sanomat declared that when the United States appeals to Finland to "step out of the war this finds a deep echo among our peace-loving people."

The Helsinki dispatch said the cabinet meeting was preceded by a closed council of the parliamentary foreign policy committee at which Sir Henrik Ramsay, foreign minister, reviewed the situation.

The United States and Finland remain at peace, although at one time last spring a diplomatic break appeared likely.

While apparently seeking a path to peace, Finland is sending many children to Sweden to escape the horrors of further air attacks by Russian bombers.

John F. Dunn, Jr., Wins Commission

John F. Dunn, Jr., formerly of Braintree, whose wife, Mrs. Evelyn M. Dunn, lives in Cazenove pl., Everett, today held a second lieutenant's commission in the U. S. Army following his graduation from the officer training school at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

He will spend a furlough with his wife and children, Evelyn Ann, 4, and John F. Dunn, 3d, 1, before going to his new post of duty.

Aircraft Executive Killed in Plunge

NEW YORK Feb. 10 (INS)—Harry Owen Smith, 55, a director of the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis, Mo., was killed today when he jumped or fell, police reported, from his 14th-floor room in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

FREED ITALY REVOKES LAW AGAINST JEWS

NAPLES, Feb. 10 (AP)—All anti-Semitic and other racial restrictions imposed by the Fascist regime in Italy were abrogated throughout liberated Italian territory by royal decree today.

Lieut.-Gen. Frank N. M. MacFarlane, deputy president of the Allied control commission, said in a statement full civil and political rights were to be restored to Jews in accordance with United Nations policies against intolerance.

The decree, issued by King Victor Emmanuel and the Badoglio government, will be enforced throughout southern Italy, Sicily, Sardinia and other Italian territory under Allied control.

Churchill to Give War Review Soon

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill will give Commons his long-awaited war review "on the first of the next but one series of our sittings," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House today.

(British censorship prohibits the transmission from England of specific advance notices of Churchill's appearances, so this dispatch means only that the prime minister's appearance is scheduled for the near future.)

Land Warns Ship Output in Danger

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10 (INS)—Admr. Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, told Congress today unless labor conditions are improved the nation will not turn out the ships needed to transport fighting men overseas in 1944. He testified before the Senate Military Affairs Committee, advocating national service legislation.

Allies Have Plane Bases Near Nice

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 10 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today that American Spitfires flew over Nice Harbor yesterday, thereby disclosing that the Allies have fighter plane bases within easy range of southern France—a prerequisite to any invasion of southern France.

Heil Himmler

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—A Nazi home front publicity campaign to popularize Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler as a possible successor to Adolf Hitler was reported today by the Office of War Information.

A dispatch in the Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten told of plans for distribution of 4,000,000 picture postcards showing Himmler in two smiling poses, the OWI said.

Social Demokraten said German newspapers had begun to print "funny" anecdotes about Himmler.

Essay Test Winners Get Awards Sunday

Awards of $25 war bonds will be made at exercises in Faneuil Hall on Sunday to the 31 girls and 12 boys who were selected winners of the essay contest sponsored by Mayor Tobin in Boston's 43 public and parochial high schools, it was announced today.

The essay topic was "Religious or Racial Discrimination Must Not Exist in America," and officials disclosed that entries were submitted by 18,721 pupils. The winning essays from each school will be entered in a final city-wide competition and the results announced at Sunday's ceremonies. The winner will receive an additional $100 bond.

Waste Paper Hunted In Old Office Files

In a move to swell the tide of waste paper, John T. Kiley, regional WPB salvage manager, today urged business firms and city, county, state and federal offices to empty their inactive and old files into the war salvage channel.

"I am confident that there is enough used paper and cardboard among the useless records on file throughout New England to keep the paper and paperboard industry operating at capacity for some time," Kiley asserted.

R. I. Sifts Confession To Jail Murders

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 10—Two State police officers left today for Easton, Pa., to question Walter J. Sullivan, 43, alias Walter Kelly, who reportedly confessed to police there he shot and killed a guard and trusty during an attempted prison break in Cranston in 1930.

Although Sullivan is not known to police of this section, the identity of confederates who attempted to liberate Thomas V. "Pretty" McNeal and George G. "Whitey" Miller at the State prison in 1930 has never been known.

RUSH KEROSENE TO BOSTON IN NEW CRISIS

Barges loaded with an emergency 40,000-barrel supply of kerosene were bound for Boston today to help relieve the acute shortage of light heating oil facing the metropolitan area.

Cong. John W. McCormack of South Boston, who disclosed the barge movements, quoted Deputy Petroleum Administrator Ralph K. Davies as admitting that Boston has less than four days' supply of kerosene in reserve.

Davies reported that main supply terminals in Boston, as of last midnight, held 104,000 barrels against a daily demand of 28,000 barrels. Tank car receipts amount to 8600 barrels a day.

After the South Boston Congressman and former Cong. Thomas Flaherty appealed to the petroleum administration for immediate help, Davies ordered trucks into emergency transportation of kerosene supplies into Boston from Providence and Portland, Me., in addition to the barge movements.

Diversions by truck from other New England cities are expected to boost the local supply another 3500 barrels a day.

Mayor Tobin, alarmed over a threatened shortage, sent word to Washington officials that thousands of Boston families depend on kerosene heaters for warmth and cooking.

Dedham Men Fights Job Exclusion Order

A motion for permission to make service on U. S. Atty Edmund J. Brandon and the U. S. Atty. General, to compel them to show cause why an order barring him from employment in any plant having Army or Navy contracts, should remain in effect, is scheduled to be filed today in Federal Court by Hans von Knorr of Canton st., Dedham.

Von Knorr, a salesman for City Service Oil Co., claims he was removed from his job last August on orders of Maj.-Gen. Sherman Miles of the First Service Command.

COAST GUARD DAY SPEEDS SALE OF BONDS

Coast Guard Day in the Fourth War Loan was marked today as friends and relatives of men in that seagoing branch of the armed services were especially asked to buy more War Bonds in tribute to fighting coast guardsmen.

In downtown Boston stores, 41 SPARS were assigned to bond booths to stimulate sales of bonds and War Stamps.

Commodore W. N. Derby, district Coast Guard officer, declared that more bond purchases are needed to provide the service with weapons and equipment "for many new tasks in the invasions still ahead." He emphasized that barges and other landing craft are largely manned by Coast Guard personnel.

"As the Coast Guard has expanded to its greatest strength in our history, the amount of equipment our personnel requires has correspondingly increased," the commodore said. "That is one more way in which the money invested in War Bonds by the American people goes directly to equip the fighting forces."

Although only five days are left in the drive, Massachusetts is lagging far behind and still has not reached the half way point toward the state quota of $258,000,000, Chairman F. W. Denio declared in urging more bond buying.

In a special ceremony at City Hall, Mayor Tobin bought $1031.25 in bonds from City Treasurer James J. McCarthy, to be used as prizes in the recent school essay contest. They will be presented Sunday during a Lincoln's birthday observance at Faneuil Hall.

How Medford Yank Saves Army $1.56

By SERGT. SAMUEL E. STAVISKY, OF CHELSEA, MASS.
A Marine Corps Combat Correspondent

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain (delayed)—Marine Pfc. Daniel Oliver, 25, of 165 Caston st., Medford, Mass., lay in his foxhole, so tired that every bone and muscle ached—but his senses were acutely alert, and that saved the government $1.56.

Oliver thought he heard a sound about 15 feet below him, but he could see nothing, since the moon was down in the jungle.

Danny turned to his platoon leader and surprised him with this question:

"Say, how much does a grenade cost?"

Startled by the unusual question at that particular hour — the Marine platoon had only a few minutes before repulsed the third consecutive Jap counterattack—the leader, made a hasty estimate.

"I think it's $1.56," he replied.

"Well," decided Danny, "here's where I save the government $1.56." And he hurled a rock toward the spot where he thought he heard the noise, holding the grenade in reserve. The echo from the jungle stillness was all the private heard.

Danny explained his conduct this way:

"We'd been fighting all week, and had fought off three screaming Jap attacks that night, and the boys were naturally tense and on edge. Things had quieted down, and I didn't want to set off a fusillade by the explosion of the grenade. If I had been sure at the time that the noise had been made by a Jap, I'd have tossed the grenade."

"That was using his head," commented the platoon leader.

Oliver, a veteran of Guadalcanal and a platoon runner, is credited with killing one Jap. He participated in his company's assault landing here and a three-hour forced march through the swamps to capture strategic Target Hill. His outfit has been on the line and in some of the bitterest fighting for the past 18 days.

A former Chelsea High School football player, Danny is the son of William J. Oliver, a member of the city's fire department.

Oliver was a ropemaker at the Boston Navy Yard before joining the marines shortly after Pearl Harbor. Two brothers are in the Army.

British Units Join Tito Army

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP)—Marshal Tito announced in a broadcast from his Yugoslav headquarters today his guerrillas had been joined by British units on Hvar—a strategic island which forms a bridgehead into the Balkans.

Naval and military quarters in London said they had no reports of any landing operation, however, and assumed it had not yet developed on a large scale. Any such operation would be directed from Algiers.

The British fighting alongside Tito's Partisans might be Commandos, marines or small army units put ashore in connection with naval activity, or might be groups of Britons who escaped Italian prison camps in northern Italy, it was pointed out.

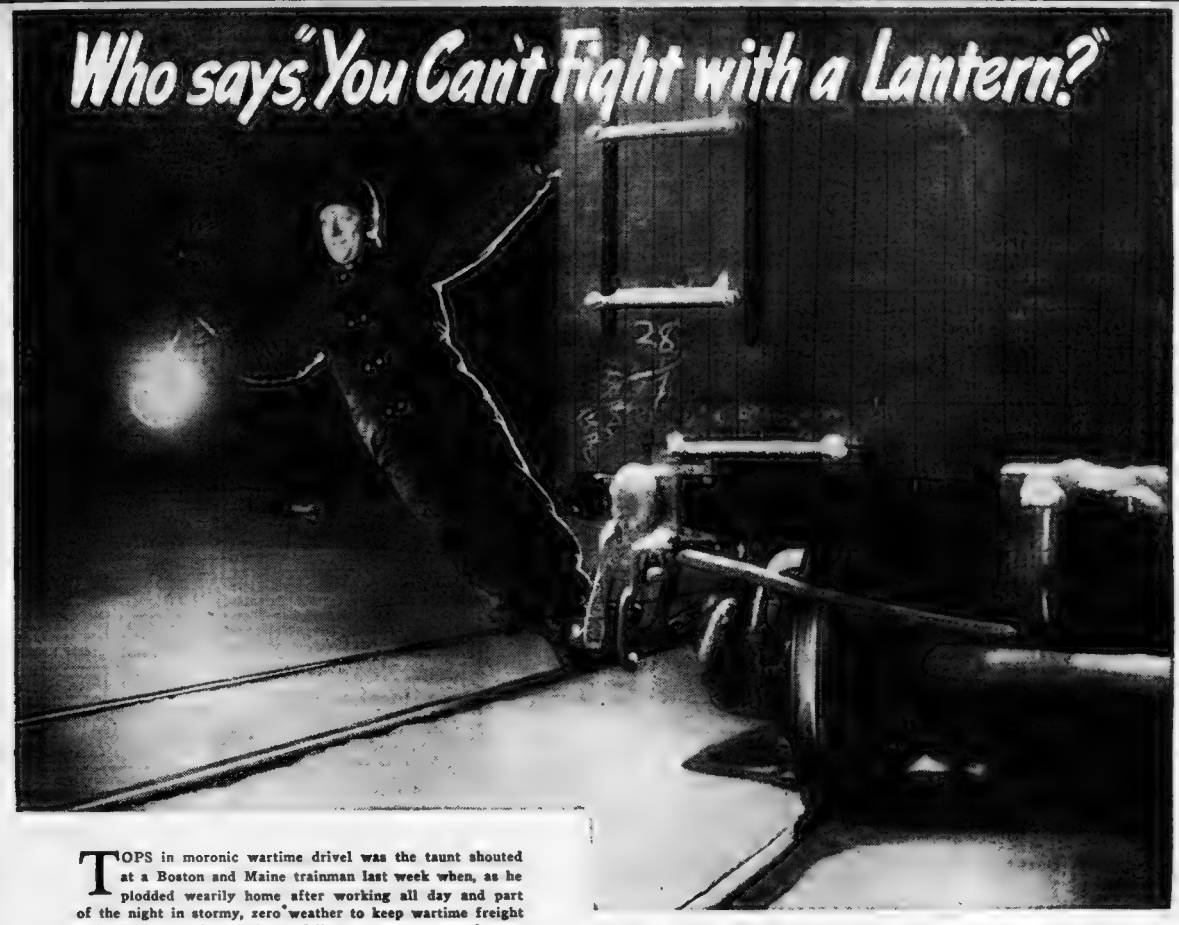
Who says "You Can't Fight with a Lantern?"



TOPS in moronic wartime drivel was the taunt shouted at a Boston and Maine trainman last week when, as he plodded wearily home after working all day and part of the night in stormy, zero weather to keep wartime freight and passenger trains moving, a fellow townsman sneered:

"Say, what's a guy your age doing out of uniform? What are you —a slacker?"

The unthinking gentleman (or should we use that word?) might like to read some facts. We're rather proud of these facts.

So are the 3,053 of our 16,000 regular Boston and Maine employees who are wearing the uniforms of the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Merchant Marine, and the other fighting forces.

Nineteen Boston and Maine men have already been buried in Army or Navy uniform since this war started.

We'd like to point out how and why a lantern, a sledgehammer, or a coal-scoop, in the hands of the right man, right here in New England can do just as much to win this war as a railroad man in Italy behind a machine gun.

Baloney, you say? Well, please read on and then judge

The Army and the Navy have repeatedly stated that the war couldn't be won and can't be won without the railroads. Hitler learned that lesson. One chief reason he's losing today is that Germany's railroad system fell apart. America's railroads didn't—and won't.

BUT, you can't run as hazardous and as complicated a business as a railroad with a majority of green men. Not safely, nor efficiently.

"3,053 out of 16,000" (and a lot of those 16,000 are railroad women) means that better than one in every five of our experienced Boston and Maine men are in fighting uniforms. They are a part of the thousands of men at the front, or preparing for the front, who must be supplied with guns and bullets, food and materials—or they can't keep on fighting.

We've had a little problem of our own, right here at home, with a lot of the younger men who are still wearing a railroad uniform. They've come in—scores of them—and asked, "Please, can't you notify my draft board to cancel my deferment—I want to get into the fight."

We've told them, as we are now telling you, that the answer is "NO." If all of them went, it would mean that there'd be chaos—accidents, delays in moving the many important things for fighting men which are being manufactured in New England's war-plants. The work of these men—on trains, patrolling tracks—in a hundred different specialized jobs on the railroad can't be stopped or men at the front would suffer. Not only that but their steadying influence on and their most necessary instruction of our many hundreds of new employees would be gone.

Keeping hundreds of troop trains moving

Keeping freight trains speeding over five states day and night; making sure that many thousands of war workers get safely to and from their work each day without accident or unnecessary delay is a job that's all-important in winning the war. It's far too important a job to trust entirely to inexperienced men and it's a job that must have the alertness and the quick judgment of seasoned employees.

An experienced trainman on a passenger train isn't just a fellow who opens the door and yells "Swampscott" and then waves a lantern. You don't see the hundred and one rules he must know; the scores of signals with which he must be entirely familiar; the schedules of other trains he has to memorize, nor countless other things he has to learn before he can be trusted to move you and your fighting men and our wartime freight so that trains may speed about with precision —yet safely.

You don't see the yardman—up to his middle in snow, who wades about in the yards in the dark, sorting heavily-laden freight cars with an expertness that can be gained only by experience. You don't see the trackman who must immediately recognize, as he patrols in all sorts of weather, a hundred and one tell-tale little signs of danger along the tracks or trains will be wrecked.

Railroading is an intricate business

The moving of trains is a tricky business, where the safe things to do are learned only by experience.

That's why the railroad has kept many a man who wanted—and still wants—to get into an Army or a Navy uniform, right on the job here at home. We've asked their draft boards to defer them—even against the wishes of scores of our men. No man can request or be granted deferment on his own initiative.

So, please, the next time you see one of our younger employees doing his most important part in the fight to win the war, we ask that you ponder a bit before you say, or think,—slacker?

NO—he's in a fighting uniform right here at home.

Miners Find Body of Child

PITTSTON, Pa. (AP)—The body of two-year-old Jule Ann Fulmer, who was swallowed up by the earth in a mine subsidence, was recovered at 7:25 last night.

The spot where the body was found had been by-passed by a huge gasoline shovel which replaced miners who had removed tons of dirt, bucket by bucket.

Doctors at the scene said the child apparently had died of suffocation.

Grew Pledges Aid In Prisoner Swap

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—The movement seeking establishment of a United States commission to recover the approximately 25,000 American soldiers and civilians still in the hands of the Japanese was promised "every possible personal aid" by Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Tokyo, today.

The ex-ambassador added that he would discuss the proposed commission, first suggested by the Hearst newspapers and strongly supported by members of Congress, with Sec. of State Cordell Hull.

The plan involves utilization of Grew's deep knowledge of factors in Japan and the former ambassador expressed willingness either to serve as a member of such a commission, or in an advisory capacity.

His promise inspired hundreds of delegates of war prisoner relief organizations who assembled in Washington today to tell the government that the people want actual, quick and practical steps on behalf of the U. S. prisoners still in the Japanese grasp.

Wives, mothers and fathers of victims of Japanese cruelty on Bataan shouted down all plans for monuments or other memorials and demanded, instead, that direct action be taken to speed aid to the prisoners.

Charles F. Adams of St. Joseph, Mo., speaking for relatives of nearly 100 men and women who were trapped on Bataan in May of 1942, said:

"I came here to do something to help speed the methods of finding out if those prisoners are still alive and get them tangible relief. If I can't go home with some answer for them, my trip is in vain."

Appearing before the Senate military affairs committee, former Ambassador Grew urged that the State Department attempt to induce Japan to permit inspections of prison camps by the International Red Cross and the Swiss embassy in Japan, the protector of American rights there.

King, Queen Dine On Miners Fare

YORK, England, Feb. 10 (AP)—Miners in a Yorkshire colliery had royal guests for luncheon yesterday. To acquire first-hand information of the industry, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth made a day-long tour and dined with 70 miners in the canteen. Lunch consisted of hot roast beef, brussels sprouts, potatoes, pudding and coffee—a meal similar to that served the miners for about 22 cents.

The Queen remarked afterward "it is a long time since we had a better meal," and the King agreed.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands never suspect that these pains may be caused, in some cases, by excessive acids within the body.

As a dietary aid in the foster metabolism of these excessive acids which in turn may tend to bring relief, vegetable oils have been utilized to this extent. Vig-Ore Sodenes Tablets were developed by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodenes Tablets contain basic sodium and food sodium, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodenes Tablets are free from all harmful chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

New Earhart Hunt Urged

By ALLAN C. FISHER, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—Sunset, July 18, 1937, and a U. S. Navy task force turned homeward from a search of more than 250,000 square miles of the Pacific with the announcement that Amelia Earhart had been given up for dead.

The government wrote finis to the search for America's tawny-haired, tomboy aviatrix, who had vanished into equatorial skies 16 days before while on a world-girdling flight.

Now, six-and-a-half years later, the government has been asked to reopen its investigation into the disappearance of Miss Earhart, the first woman to fly across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Rep. Heffernan (D.) of New York, proposed in Washington yesterday that the Army and Navy look for possible evidence that she had been forced down in the Marshall islands while en route from Lae, New Guinea, to Howland island, 2556 miles distant and on an airline route south of the Marshalls.

The legislator suggested that the Japanese might have concealed the fate of the aviatrix and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan.

He said that Miss Earhart may have flown over the Marshalls, only to have been shot down or forced down by the Japanese after she had seen their "illegal operations" in the islands.

Efforts were made to trace a radio report, heard soon after her disappearance, which said she had been taken prisoner by the Japanese. Nothing ever was discovered to substantiate the report.

Communism in Early Massachusetts

AS MR. ADAMS has written in his book, "The American," the Jamestown colonists sought a better way of life in America than they had known in England and decided to pool the products of their labor in a common store and draw upon it according to their needs—a purely communistic device.

The result was not a better way of life, but an era of idolence during which nobody thought it was necessary to work and consequently everybody nearly starved to death.

Moreover, when the Plymouth Colony in our own Massachusetts was established in 1620 a similar experiment was attempted and with the same results.

"We have earlier observed what happened to the common store notion when tried by Americans in Virginia," Mr. Adams comments.

"The Communistic, or common store, idea was part of the stock-in-trade of the blueprint theorists of the day then, as it is of many of the young humanitarian but ungrounded intelligentsia, so-called, of our own.

"A plan similar to the Virginia one was instituted by the business group which backed Plymouth, but lasted, as in the South, only until empty stomachs settled the question against empty heads.

"After a couple of years or so, Governor Bradford of Plymouth noted, as John Smith had at Jamestown, that it was necessary to abandon the scheme and allot lands to individuals, whereby, as Bradford wrote, 'more corn was planted than otherwise would have been by any means the Governor or any other could use.'

"The reason was no further to seek than it had been in Virginia.

"The Englishman is a thoroughgoing individualist, and the Englishmen who came to conquer a continent were no more Communists than their American descendants in general have been.

"As elsewhere in Plymouth, the 'young unmarried men objected to having the fruits of their toil go to support other men's wives and children. Married men disliked having their wives sew, cook and wash for others. Hard-working men thought it unfair that they should support the more idle or incapable. The older men, or those of the better class, declined to work for the younger or meaner.'"

"ALL THIS is very human, and, what many now too often forget, very American.

"Bradford was a simple but very sensible man, brought up as a boy to be a yeoman farmer following the plough, but he had made himself well-read, and we may add his statement as to how Communism worked to that already quoted from Smith:

"'The experience that was had in this commone course and condition (he wrote) tried sundrie years, and that amongst Godly and sober men, may well evince the vanitie of that conceite of Platos & other ancients, applauded by some of later times;—that ye taking away of propertie, and bringing in communitie into a commone wealth would make them happy and flourishing; as if they were wiser than God. For this communitie (so far as it was) was found to breed much confusion & discontent, and retard much employment that would have been to their benefit and comfort.'

"The American is perhaps the most lavishly generous person in the world.

"Possibly it is partly due to some truth in the old saying contrasting the Americans and the French, to the effect that the French love to possess but not to acquire, whereas the American loves to acquire but cares little for possession.

"Jamestown and Plymouth were the earliest two successful settlements in America, and they both illustrate American traits at the very beginning.

"The settlers of each had shown their determination to make their own way, but they also showed that, although they did not intend to be forced by law or institutions to hand over to others the results of their own energy and work, they would, nevertheless, do so of their own volition when left to themselves.

"In 1622 Jamestown was far from being in a happy or secure position, but when its inhabitants heard that other new Americans had settled at Plymouth and were in desperate need they dispatched a vessel with food and seed corn to help the strangers who also were following the dream and engaging in the great adventure.

"Bradford, perhaps properly, thanked the Lord for it, but it was the Virginians who scrimped themselves to send the unsolicited aid."

THESE EXCERPTS from American history are of immense value, for our information and instruction today.

The American character was being shaped in that early time.

It has held its shape through all time since.

It will lose its historic shape only when the lesson then taught regarding the futility and failure of Communism is forgotten.

IT is stated that the chances of a man in the armed forces returning home safely are 972 out of 1000. The statement is too general. The crew of a Flying Fortress has much less chance of returning unharmed than men in some other branches of the services. An infantryman has even less chance than a member of a Flying Fortress crew. In fact I think the infantry is in the toughest spot of all. That and the Marines.

PASSING BY: Maxey Rosenbloom. Ex-leatherpusher. In 1938 Maxey offered to fight Max Schmeling in Berlin on Hitler's birthday. And he wasn't kidding . . . Gaylord Hauser. The dietitian with a personality. Still seems to be No. 1 man with Greta Garbo. As I told you before, Mr. Hauser has stated that a woman "should be trained like a race horse." How do you think your wife would look working out six furlongs on a muddy track? . . . Lieut.-Col. Bernie Bierman of the U. S. Marines. When coach of the University of Minnesota his team was domiciled in a hotel that caught fire. Players all started to crowd on the fire escape and it was blocked. "What will we do, coach?" cried a player. "It's too crowded for all of us on the fire escape." Bernie, always a quick thinker, yelled: "First team take fire escape; second team jump." (Note: "Greasy" Neale told me this story.)

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Wasn't the Palace, New York, the greatest theater in the history of vaudeville? A—I wouldn't say so. I think it was Hammerstein's Victoria Music Hall, a place which caught the true spirit of vaudeville much better than the Palace which was a kind of a showcase for star acts . . . Q—Have you stopped blushing yet for forgetting "Pal" Moore when you said there never had been a great boxer named Moore? A—Yes, sir. I stopped at 5 p. m. yesterday because I had to start blushing for crediting some lines from Lowell's "First Snowfall" to Whittier . . . Q—All right, smart fellow, in what play was the last line: "Spend it?" A—If it wasn't "The Dummy," starring Ernest Truex, name your brand of stogie.

STYLE CENTER: In the post-war period Mayor LaGuardia wants New York, and not Paris, to be the style center of the world. It is the stylists that make a style center. After the war, as before, the Paris stylists will be very difficult to surpass. I recall one fine summer day in 1938 at the Longchamps race track in Paris I said to my girl friend: "The paddock looks like a Follies girls' convention. I never saw so many beautiful women in one place before." My girl friend said: "Most of them are not really beautiful but they certainly do look beautiful. The Parisian dressmakers and hair-dressers have a remarkable talent for making a woman of average looks appear beautiful. They can even make a homely woman look smart. And if a woman is beautiful they make her appear more provocative and interesting. That's why they are so successful. In their hands any woman, no matter what her original appearance, can have the hope they will make her look a lot better."

HUSBANDS, ETC.: "Take your husband's job for the duration." That is the offer made by one organization to the wives of salesmen who have gone into the armed services. Many wives have accepted. It is nice for a wife to know how to do her husband's job. After the war the aforementioned wives can occasionally relieve their husbands for a couple of weeks so the boys can go fishing. Still that wouldn't work out so well. Who would do the housework? Well, maybe the husband and wife could switch jobs every now and then. If a husband had to do the housework occasionally he might appreciate his wife more. That might not work out so well either. The wife, after a hard day's work, would have to eat the dinner her husband prepared. Guess we better skip the idea.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY—Last night I was talking to an older man in the Army Air Force who has just come back from India, China and Italy. It gives one courage to see people of one's own generation still able to render real service because of their training and the good physical condition which they still enjoy.

He gave me permission to tell one story. When our Army went into Naples, the Italians were happy to see them. As our boys marched in, a motherly Italian woman rushed up to her attic where, for a whole month, she had hidden an American soldier. She had fed him what little she had and she gave him loving care. He had escaped from a German prison camp. He had obtained an Italian uniform and made friends with an Italian soldier, and together they traveled toward the part of Italy where he knew his army was fighting.

THEY REACHED NAPLES, but it was still infested with Germans, and they decided that they had better part and that he must find a hiding place. Our boy met this woman's son, who took him home. She hid him. From day to day they expected the Americans to come in. They heard the steps of the German police patrol which passed the house night and day. The woman had four children, and their lives and hers were forfeit if the Germans ever found out that she harbored an American.

After the American Army got in, our boy and my friend gathered what rations they could find and went back to her home with more food than she had seen for many days, in gratitude for the hospitality. The whole family and the two American soldiers had a feast. The woman periodically threw her arms around the American boy and shed a few tears, tears of thanksgiving because he was safe. For she had come to look upon him almost as one of her own children!

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—The Warner bid to buy "Farewell to Arms" for a bushel of money is strictly "no sale," for the best reasons in the world.

Buddy De Sylva will remake the famous Helen Hayes-Gary Cooper hit himself. And what particularly amuses me is that both Warners and Para covet the prize to star Ingrid Bergman—who belongs to David Selznick. Warners would have teamed Ingrid with Humphrey Bogart, with whom she made "Casablanca." Now Buddy says that if he can get her she will have Ray Milland as her co-star.

Ida Lupino

"Farewell to Arms" was one of my favorite pictures of all time. Who will ever forget that terrific love scene between Helen and Gary? Once when I was talking with Helen she said one of the reasons she did not want to continue to make movies was because there just weren't any more stories like "Farewell to Arms"—and another favorite of hers, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet."

JUST AS WE suspected, Dennis Morgan is definitely off suspension at Warners and by way of making up for lost time Jack Warner is announcing a schedule to keep Dennis busy. Last week, even before everything was rosy, Warners cast Dennis with Irene Manning in "Henrietta, the Eighth," but before that musical gets under way he will do "The Very Thought of You" with Ida Lupino. It will be the first time these two have made a picture together since "The Hard Way"—the movie that won Ida the New York critics' award as the best feminine performance of the year.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The Red Skelton-Muriel Morris romance is cold, finished and through—and I get this straight. Not only have Red and Muriel called off their engagement, but—surprise, surprise—it doesn't look like he is making up with his estranged wife, Edna. The girl with whom the explosive Red is having the most dates now is Lynn Merrick, the Columbia honey who went on the bond tour with him.

JEANETTE MacDONALD and I went backstage to visit Margaret Sullavan after seeing her in "The Voice of the Turtle" for the second time. Margaret, who looks about 18 years old in the show, showed us the cute little kitchen cupboard built in her dressing room—an exact replica of the one on the stage. She loves to prepare tea and simple meals and really whipped us up a very fine tea party. I wouldn't be surprised if Jeanette doesn't do a show.

SNAPSHOTS OF NEW YORK AND HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Judy Garland made the first move toward divorcing Dave Rose when she consulted her lawyer yesterday. Dave made the second by going into a huddle with his attorney, which may mean he won't grant the necessary permission to Judy until after the war; Adeline De Walt Reynolds, the cute little old lady who will be 82 this year, has hired a personal press agent. "I have to plan for my future," she laughs; Joan Davis will be "profiled" by a leading magazine; John Hertz and Myrna Loy heading for the Coast in spite of not being able to get a place to live in Hollywood; Dorothy McGuire and the bridegroom, John Swope, holding hands over a dinner table; Bob Hope, who had an awful day wrestling with that bear in "Road to Utopia," cracked: "If Morgenthau takes 80 per cent of the money he ought to come out here and take 20 per cent of the beating!" Sandra Gale, ex-wife of Mitch Leisen, seriously ill in the Good Samaritan Hospital; Elaine Anderson, stage manager of "Oklahoma," leaves for Hollywood this week-end to join her husband, Zachary Scott; Lillian Gish and Henry King, two old friends, lunching together.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—Jennifer Jones' heartthrob (and adviser) is one of the biggest of the Hollywood producers . . . The Shirley Ross-Ken Dolan rift is about to be mended. That's the reason for his trip East . . . Gene Krupa and Carol Bruce are sniffing orange blossoms . . . Paul Lukas is hospitalized on the West Coast—overwork . . . The identity of Paulette Goddard's new flame would surprise you—or wouldn't it? He's a director-producer-etcetera . . . Lou Walters' latest plan is to bring a two-a-day vaudeville show to town . . . The Jimmy Dugdales (he's kin to the King of England, she was Timmy Lansing Arno) have their intimates wondering . . . Rumors are that Lieut. Burgess Meredith has been sent back to the U. S. from Africa (or will be) because of illness.

JOHN GUNTHER'S romance with Marianne O'Brien has done a fadeout. But her sister, Dorothy, will trek to the altar with sports columnist Al Buck in March . . . Bill Hightower, the oil executive killed in that Kansas plane crash, was engaged to marry Mrs Josephine Herbert, very wealthy and socially prominent . . . Barbara Allison, peeved because no local judge would marry her to her oft-married fiance, has left town in a huff, bound for Mexico . . . The forthcoming 30 per cent federal tax will frighten some night clubs into eliminating entertainment and becoming straight restaurants . . . Milton Berle has sunk $40,000 of his own coin into "Same Time Next Week," which he starts casting within the next few days.

ALFRED DRAKE, the "Oklahoma!" hero, is writing three plays at once . . . Patricia Dane will be in Gotham soon to undergo a tonsillectomy . . . Lena Horne and M-G-M having a grand feud. She wants more $$$$$ . . . Jesse Royce Landis' next husband will be a British newspaperman . . . Marty May will replace his father-in-law in the road company of "Sons o' Fun" . . . Tyrone Power receives his Marine Air Corps wings this week in Texas . . . Legal entanglements concerning the will of the late Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., will be settled amicably. Attorneys for Lady Stanley and Doug, Jr., have been huddling . . . Don't be surprised if Mary Astor becomes a bride again in the near future.

AL BLOOMINGDALE and Lois Andrews are a heart toddy . . . Fokine, the ballet master, wrote "artist" on his Army questionnaire when he came to the line that asked "occupation?" So now he's a sign painter at Ft. Meade! . . . Betty Allen and husband have agreed on a "trial separation."

"Was the bus crowded, Dear?"

More on Suppressions 19

By George E. Sokolsky

SOME TIME AGO, I called attention to an article by Garet Garrett which could find no publisher until the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce made it available to the public. That article has since had a widespread circulation but still nothing equal to that of a national magazine.

I now call attention to an article by Channing Pollock entitled "We Planned It That Way." This article was ordered by a national magazine of the largest of circulations and Mr. Pollock spent four months working on it. The editor turned it down because he dared not publish it. Pollock offered it to other editors who turned it down, one of them on the ground that Pollock is not known as an authority on government.

I COULD, if I wanted to be nasty, list the names of some of the authors published in these magazines whose authority would be denied by most Americans. I might ask some of these editors to define a authority on government. What, for instance, makes Harry Hopkins an authority on the foreign policy of this country? What experience in government did he get selling Christmas seals?

On the other hand, does a citizen need to be an authority on government to express his ideas? Take this paragraph from Channing Pollock's "We Planned It That Way:"

"Few of our citizens have ever experienced a lack or an annoyance without insisting that 'there ought to be a law.' Well, now Congress has been enacting an average of about 1300 new laws a year, while nearly 200 government boards without lawmaking powers under the Constitution grind out rules and regulations of their own. We are so rich in alphabetical agencies that not even a crossword puzzle expert could identify half of them. During a radio quiz last year, a bright young gentleman muffed the question: 'What is the F. S. L. I. C.?' only to learn that the initials represented the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation in which he was currently employed.

"My latest roster of these bureaus lists 75, all handing down edicts and one alone including 2700 attorneys. In addition, while Lincoln issued two executive orders, Roosevelt, during his first seven years in office, published 2538—an average of one a day. We need no longer complain, 'there ought to be a law.' There are so many thousands of 'em that no man alive knows what they are, or could interpret them, and it is unlikely that anybody could do anything for which he might not be brought to book."

THIS IS A literate statement of a tribulation which is eating into the vitals of our citizens who are being regulated until one wakes up in the morning wondering what law, regulation, rule and directive he will unwittingly break today.

I was present at a dinner at which the chairman of the board of a business spoke to his supervisory workers and said that his company thought they would participate patriotically in a war bond campaign by buying war bonds and giving a $100 bond to each of the supervisory workers as a gift for their conscientious war services. But that was forbidden, to his sorrow, because the gift would be regarded as an inflationary wage increase. What do you think of that!

SO CHANNING POLLOCK wrote a brilliant essay on the confusions resulting from excessive legislation and regulation. It is a splendid journalistic job, but no editor would give it space. It was offered and rejected. You can get copies from the National Economic Council, Inc., 350 Fifth ave., New York 1. Price 4 cents. It will be well worth your while.

tossing about during the blitz, the native Londoner is being herded, jostled and mobbed by a mixture of Allied nationalities, including the 59 varieties of refugees and soldiery which includes a heavy saturation of U. S. doughboys, both on duty and off.

And that's the general source of whatever critical analogy you find in your home town press of the so-called "British impression"—which is no more typical of British opinion than if one asks a lounger in Times sq. what he thinks of Texas.

The attitude toward Americans in London is one of patient resignation—as one might endure a case of temporary measles (After all, old chap, you've got 'em of course, but they cawn't last forever.) Taxies are scarce, and the drivers snooty. Hotels are overflowing and the clerks harassed. Restaurants are mobbed and the food thin. Little luxuries are rare and the prices ballooned. London is in the way of being a boom town—and doesn't like it!

But London is not, per se, England, and out in the country, among the church towns, and the hamlets and the four corners, the British plain people, which are the nation's lungs, liver and heart, are taking Americans to their ample bosoms and calling 'em cousin. Ask the soldiers!

Well, then—last night for the first time since I arrived in England I heard the up-and-down, double-toned air alert—OWWWowwOWWW—and after that the distant grumble of ack-ack guns firing on the outer rim of the city. It wasn't a mass raid, as I remember the nocturnal visits of the Luftwaffe during the Blitz period. Against that older standard this was only a gnat dance, in which a few planes hopped on the outer edge of the be-fogged target, dropped a bomb or two and high-tailed for home.

Not a Londoner budged from his normal course, or swerved from his usual groove. The raid shelters which still honeycomb the town, were empty, except for the permanent residents who prefer their folksiness to the barren places they once called home. Fur in some quarters the less privileged have formed the "community habit" of coming together nightly—not through fear or for safety—but for the sake of light, fellow-warmth, free-masonry and a spot of tea and meditation.

London still wears its original scars—the toothless gaps in rows of buildings, the shuttered shells and gaunt skeletons. But time has softened them, and they have the look of permanency, as though, like Roman ruins, they have always been there, neatly fenced, firmly shored and in housewifely order. Nothing that is ruined has been rebuilt, nor will be until the end and audit of the war.

This was one of London's foggier days when the atmosphere was creamy as celery soup, through which passing figures swam as through milk, and even that hardiest breed of all humanity, the London taxi drivers, stayed home and plainly said, "Tell with it." So, if you got yourself lost—and every American did—you merely asked the nearest bloke that came out of the fog and heard the old refrain, "You cawn't miss it!" And cawn't you, though? It's become the common gag, used by Americans as a hail and farewell, "You cawn't miss it."

Eisenhower Conference

So today there was no need for the big silvery, elephant-eared barrage balloons which, on clear days, still hover protectively over the city like the pre-circus "Spec" in Ringling Bros. They just stayed swaying gently on their tethers near the ground—like Jumbos munching away.

Gen. Eisenhower, the big Allied boss, gave one of his informal press conferences today, at which the accredited correspondents gathered round for the latest gossip. It wasn't what the general said—which was largely "off the record" - as the way he said it, clipping his words incisively with his broad, kewpie smile that is more habit than humor.

He stood against a set of Allied silk standards, with the Stars and Stripes between the Union Jack and the Russian hammer-and-sickle, and gave candid answers to forthright questions.

It was clear he has given the press under his command his complete trust and they, in turn, give him their faith. There was no restraint, and after the more formal phase he stood around fanning with this little clump, and that, with his unspoken stipulation, that he be not quoted because, he said he did not like a "talking general."

So goodby to London's wartime whirligig, as my little nursery train chuffs through the hedged country at the dizzying speed of 25 MPH, and ever and anon lets off its snrill penny whistle from sheer sense of importance. Stations drift past, which sound like such names as Diddle-Copington-on Tyne, but aren't. Late this afternoon we'll chug into a squat granite station many miles away, that looks like the garage of the Charles St. Jail.

WARNING TO WAR-WORKERS!

To get the most out of your efforts, you have to feel right! If you tire easily—feel weak, rundown and nervous—you're only doing a half-way job!

Check up on yourself! Maybe the reason why you can't "take it" any more, is because your blood is low in iron! In such cases, a good iron tonic like Pepto-Mangan can go a long way towards helping you get back your old pep and endurance.

Pepto-Mangan replenishes whatever iron the blood may be lacking—helps to give it that rich redness so essential for vigorous strength and real vitality. If your blood is short of iron, a few bottles of Pepto-Mangan may be all that's needed to "fix you up"! Ask your druggist for—

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acidic and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Seven U. S. government war training courses for men and women, with tuition paid by the government, will be sponsored by Northeastern University starting next Monday, Feb. 14.

They are elementary engineering drawing, machine drawing, technical drawing problems, metallography and heat treatment for engineers, methods engineering, optical instruments, and time study, all part-time evening courses.

Newton Marine's Feat Saves Unit

The story of a Newton Marine's double fight against an attack of malaria as well as Jap snipers, during his struggle through miles of mud and jungle brush to warn a Marine artillery unit of impending encirclement near the Cape Gloucester air field, was related in a delayed dispatch from New Britain today.

Pfc. John F. Carley, a scout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Carley of Charlesbank rd., Newton, was identified as the heroic Marine.

After running the gantlet of Jap snipers, Pvt. Carley collapsed from exhaustion and fever on completing his mission. He told his company commander of the approach of enemy troops in time to save the unit.

Princess Killed By Nazi Torture

By W. P. SAPHIRE

CAIRO, Feb. 10 (INS)—The torture slaying by German Gestapo agents of Princess Mary Theresa von Pless, whose marriage in London in the latter part of the nineteenth century was a social highlight, was disclosed today.

The princess, a reigning beauty in Europe a generation ago, died in her castle in Silesia—one of four castles owned by the family—according to word received by her son, Prince Alexander von Pless.

Prince Alexander is serving as a lance corporal in the Polish Legion of the Middle East.

Mary Theresa Olivia Cornwallis-West daughter of the socially-prominent Earl de la Warr, wed handsome Prince Hans Henri von Pless in London in 1891, when she was 18. For years she was a glamorous figure in continental society. In 1922 she and the prince were divorced in Berlin. He later remarried.

Wanted by Fleischmann!
Good Judges of Good Whiskey To Try a Great New Brand!

Wouldn't You Like to Serve a Whiskey that has the Full, Ripe Richness of the World's Finest, Most Limited Brands? If you would, now you can! Read why!

"IT'S A WHOPPER!" says Donald C. Greeff, Insurance Executive. "It mixes likes million! Makes a drink as smooth as velvet! It's the best I've tasted since Repeal, 9 long years ago—and I've tried 37 different brands!"

"IT'S THE BEST NEWS I ever poured out of a bottle!" comments E. C. Muhlhausen, prominent New York Banker. "It's got that smooth, creamy, velvety quality you find in the world's great limited whiskies! And I ought to know! I've tried 17 brands since Repeal!"

"IT'S A TEN-STRIKE!" enthuses James B. Greene, New York sportsman. "It's got what it takes—in body, aroma, mellowness, flavor! I've tried 15 whiskies since Repeal, but I've never tasted a finer!"

• This invitation is written for the few men who are really good judges of good whiskey . . . who can appreciate a whiskey that is as gloriously rich, creamy and delicious as the world's finest, most limited brands—and who do not need any thing more to confirm them in their judgment.

We set out several years ago to see if we could make such a whiskey. We spared no expense. We experimented. We drew from the world's choicest reserves. We selected the finest grains, and backed them up with the world's most delicate skills.

The result is—Fleischmann's PREFERRED, one of the world's most remarkable whiskies. Velvety. Creamy! Full! Delicious! We are sorry that we can offer Fleischmann's PREFERRED only in limited amounts as all our distilling facilities are devoted 100% to the war effort. If your dealer has Fleischmann's PREFERRED, try it! It will always be even you did!

FLEISCHMANN'S PREFERRED BLENDED WHISKEY

FLEISCHMANN'S PREFERRED Blended Whiskey. The straight whiskies in this product are 4 years or more old; 35% straight whiskies, 65% neutral spirits distilled from grain. 90 Proof.

NOTABLE FOR BUTTONS as well as slimness . . .is many a New York suit for spring . . . and the one pictured will be another of the season's most popular in gray. Noteworthy details of this one . . . are the broad shoulders . . . trimly fastened waist . . . and simulated fly-front skirt line . . . accentuated with the soft, feminine touches of a white dickey and a gray wool hat with red fringe cascade. Revitalize Your Eyes

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

TWINKLE, TWINKLE, little eyes . . . It would be such a glorious feeling if they did . . . like little diamonds sparkling out of a beauty frame . . . to look . . . with overlording survey . . . so young and rested. Dazzling orbs are refreshed orbs . . . so clear . . . so white . . . and so glistening. You'd feel like a million dollars . . . intrinsically, of course . . . and like a new woman, too.

Almost the first facial feature to reflect fatigue and inertia . . . to reveal a sluggish body, overtired and strained . . . are the eyes. And, when the eyes are listless and dull . . . when they have lost that brilliant shine . . . the entire countenance . . . however regular are the features . . . has that droopy look about it.

You wash and cleanse your face of its impurities and day's catch of dust and grime . . . you cream and pamper your complexion to give it a dewy glow and radiance . . . you give it greater stimulation to increase the soft, meilow beauty of its texture . . . but what do you do for the glance in your eyes?

I don't mean the little lines around the eyes . . . although that should be a regular part of the eye beauty routine . . . I mean the eyeballs themselves . . . the pupil and its surrounding egg-white pond. Do you try to brghten and beautify them by a soothing and stimulating routine?

CLEARS YOUR HEAD

Eyes are constantly subjected to strain. They tire easily . . . and show the effects just as quickly. They need attention. Personally, I couldn't get along without this treasured treatment for my eyes. For me, it is a positive must . . . as is every phase of the facial routine.

This herbal eye pad . . . fixed like a double tea-bag to fit directly over the eyeballs . . . is first wrung out in water as hot as your fingers can stand . . . it is wrung out so that it will not run down the face or neck. After your face has been cleansed, apply the pad directly and tightly over the eyes . . . repeating the hot applications for 10 minutes.

Dry your eyes and see for yourself the renewed feeling of aliveness that comes to your head . . . for not only does the application revitalize your eyes, but clears your head.

There are seven such herbal eye pads in the box . . . and in many instances, can be used more than once. There is an eye cream which can be applied around the eyes . . . over upper and lower eyelids . . . patting lightly. After five minutes, remove the cream with tissues . . . and place an iced pad of felt three or four times . . . pressing tightly over the eyes.

For the name of this eye revitalizer, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the weekend, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WOULD HAVE beautiful eyes . . . eyes that sparkle because they look so young and rested . . . you must give them a soothing and stimulating routine . . . simple to pursue . . . that will revitalize their glance . . . a freshened, fascinating glance like that of Columbia Starlet Janet Blair.

Serviceman's Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

"My sergeant" and I, when he has his next furlough, are to be married at the parsonage of my church. Only the members of our families will be present at the ceremony, but directly after the ceremony my mother and father are giving a reception and dinner in a private suite of a hotel for our families and several close friends of ours. Now, Mrs. Beeckman, I have, like most girls, always dreamed of wearing a white wedding dress and veil, and this is just what "my sergeant" wants me to wear. But my mother and sister very much doubt the propriety of this, insisting that a parsonage wedding is too informal for the bride to be dressed formally. What is your advice? NANCY.

My advice, Nancy, is for you to wear the white wedding dress and veil that you and "your sergeant" want you to wear. I'm "all out" for having your dreams come true! And the particular point of propriety is that you'll be appropriately dressed for the reception and dinner after the ceremony.

Lincoln Day Menu

By MARTHA LEE

BAKED APPLES, gingerbread, hot fruit punch—this menu for a Lincoln's Birthday celebration is one that Abe Lincoln himself might have eaten with gusto.

The fruits called for in this menu—oranges, lemons and apples—are unrationed and plentiful. Gingerbread calls for molasses, an unrationed sweetening that the government urges homemakers to buy right now, since stocks of it, too, are ample.

Are you a member of a club, church or P. T. A. group who are buying war bonds? If so, you and other members of your group might each open your home on Lincoln's Birthday to a few friends, not members of your group, and serve this menu. Your guests pay for their entertainment and the proceeds go into war bonds to help the current War Bond drive.

Recipes for this menu follow:

HOT FRUIT PUNCH

2 cups boiling water — 8 tsp. tea
1½ cups sugar or honey
1 cup lemon juice
5 cups orange juice
2 qts. boiling water

Pour the 2 cups boiling water over the tea. Let stand 5 minutes. Strain. Dissolve the sugar in the warm tea. Add fruit juices and the 2 quarts of boiling water. Heat to just under boiling but do not boil. (Boiling lessens flavor as well as the important vitamin C, which the orange and lemon juice give us.) Serve at once. This recipe makes 1 gallon—16 large glasses or 32 small punch glasses. Halve or double amounts to serve smaller or larger groups.

In these days when the "heat's off" in our homes, this punch is a welcome hot beverage for family gatherings around the living-room heater. It's a good drink, too, as a "warmer up-er" to serve guests who arrive on a frosty evening.

LEMON BAKED APPLES

6 medium sized apples
½ cup granulated, brown or maple sugar or honey
1 tbsp. grated lemon peel
3 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
Nuts and raisins (optional)

Wash and core apples. Place in baking dish. Fill each cavity with a portion of the sugar or honey, grated lemon peel and butter. Add the nuts or raisins or a mixture of the two if desired. Pour some of the lemon juice over each apple. Cover the bottom of the pan with boiling water. Cover dish and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. to 400 deg. F.), about 30 to 40 minutes, or until apples are tender. If baked uncovered, baste frequently with syrup in pan.

The lemon juice is especially good where apples are lacking in tartness. That lemon juice brings out flavor is a useful fact to remember in making apple sauce and in cooking dried apples or other dried fruits.

GINGERBREAD

½ cup melted shortening — 1 egg, beaten
1¼ cups molasses
2½ cups sifted flour
1½ tsp. soda — 1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger — ½ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. salt — ¾ cup hot water

Combine shortening and molasses and add egg. Stir until well blended. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the hot water. Bake in a well-greased 9x9x2-inch pan in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Makes 16 servings.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

DON'T try to impress a boy by talking about others! If you say, "You go to Hillside? Maybe you know a girl named Ann Jones? She's such a bore . . . and a regular wallflower!" and the youth answers, "She's my cousin," your attempts at conversation have hardly been successful!

Check on Bare Back Styles

By BETTINA BEDWELL

FROM every quarter now, the fashion prophets are crying about that bare-back, nude-at-the-top look which this column announced as a big Spring style some time ago.

And we think it's time to say a word on the dangers of this matter, now that Hollywood has joined the hue and cry, and you'll be seeing lots of exposures in the movies. Don't bare your back, your neck, your arms simply because it's in style.

If you have a bad shoulder line, necklines or bulgy back lines, and if you have arms that need some covering, then give it to them. And don't let any fashion expert persuade you to another course. There are always ways and means, as I said before.

First Ballet Pro in Roosevelts

By BETTY ALDEN

THEODORA ROOSEVELT, granddaughter of the late President Teddy Roosevelt, is the first professional ballet dancer of the famous Roosevelt family. She is currently dancing in the Ballet Revue at the Opera House and very excited about the experience for it is her first show and gives her a chance to work under the great choreographer, Leonide Massine.

Unlike some society girls who choose careers in the theatrical world she is conservative and shuns the glamorous ways of life. Prefers slim tailored suits, unostentatious hotels (usually one nearest the theater), rides the subway, is an avid reader of poetry, biography and French novels, and devotes a major portion of her time to dancing lessons.

Like the famous busman's holiday, her favorite off-stage hobby is ballroom dancing—rhumbas and sambas to "the hottest jazz music I can find." Likes to visit art galleries and inquired if most of the treasures in the Boston Museum had been put away for protection in case of bombing. Old films of dancers such as the great Pavlova have a particular fascination for her. Vivacious and fun loving, she is a delightful conversationalist and enjoys making new friends.

She took up ballet in earnest four years ago. At the Mordkin Ballet School she teamed up with Alix Iolas, talented young Greek-American dancer, and they have been recital partners ever since. They recently returned from a highly successful tour of Brazil where "the people are sensitive and appreciative of fine music and dancing, and entertained us in beautiful homes."

Alix danced in the Salzburg Festivals in those gay pre-war days when American music lovers flocked to Austria, and also appeared in London and Paris. He creates the choreography of their numbers, artistically blending the costumes, lights and dancing to catch the temperament and personality of the music.

Theodora's Dad, Maj. Archibald Roosevelt, is in the South Pacific and her brother, Lieut. Archie, Jr., has been on duty in Africa. Her younger sisters are with their mother in New York, one at finishing school and the other taking a secretarial course. During her debutante year she went to Radcliffe, lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Lockwood of Bay State rd., and was entertained at a dinner dance by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar Lockwood of Topsfield.

No matter to what part of the globe they should travel Theodora and her partner will not go hungry because they can't read the menu. She has inherited some of her distinguished grandfather's linguistic talent and can order everything from soup to nuts in four languages, while Alix can order in seven, including Arabic.

BALLET STARS are Alix Iolas, Greek-American dancer, and Theodora Roosevelt, granddaughter of President Teddy Roosevelt.

Quiz Youths on Fire In Mattapan Mansion

Questioning of neighborhood youths was ordered today in an attempt to determine the cause of a three-alarm fire in a 32-room mansion formerly known as the "Liverside Estate" in River st., Mattapan, destroyed at a loss of $10,000.

Meanwhile, two firemen are recuperating at City Hospital from injuries suffered in battling the blaze. They are James F. Shields, 44, of Leroy st., Dorchester, and Atty Jackson, 46, of Washington st., Dorchester.

"GOVERNMENT GIRL"—Olivia de Havilland takes a fling at comedy in RIO Radio's new comedy romance invoiving a $2000-a-year secretary and her dollar-a-year boss. The Dudley Nichols-directed film begins a week's run at the RKO Boston today.

'ROSALINDA' EXTENDS STAY AT SHUBERT

The New Opera Company production of "Rosalinda," now playing at the Shubert, will once more extend its local engagement. The Johann Strauss musical hit will enter its fourth week next Monday evening and play a fifth week at the Shubert due to the unprecedented demand for seats . . . Tickets for all performances are now on sale at the box office . . . The company of 100 is headed by Dorothy Sarnoff, Ralph Herbert, Virginia MacWatters, Everett West, Edward J. Lambert, Alexander Ivo, Paul Best, Gene Barry, Elise Reiman and others.

Currently showing on the Modern screen is "A Lady Takes a Chance," co-starring Jean Arthur and John Wayne in a story of a cowboy and a lady questing for adventure . . . The co-feature is "Gangway for Tomorrow," with Margo, Robert Ryan and John Carradine.

"The Fighting Seabees," Republic's exciting tribute to the Navy's newest fighting unit, brings John Wayne, Susan Hayward and Dennis O'Keefe to the Washington St. Olympia and Scollay screens today for a week's run . . . On the same bill is "O' My Darling Clementine," a musical romance featuring Frank Albertson anr Lorna Grey.

Due tomorrow at the Telepix Theater is "Upbeat in Music," latest March of Time release featuring the Boston's incomparable symphony orchestra . . . Other items are a British documentary, "The Last Hazard," story of the balloon ships guarding the channels to Britain's ports; a visit to Palm Springs, an unusual occupations' short and the latest newsreels.

The public ticket sale for the Jascha Heifetz concert in Symphony Hall is now on . . . Although Aaron Richmond's Celebrity Series subscribers have purchased most of the seats, there are some available seats . . . Lotte Lehman's Sunday afternoon concert program in Symphony Hall will include songs by Purcell, Torelli, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, Schuman, Wolf, Strauss, Faure, Hahn and Thompson . . . Tickets for the concert went on sale this morning at Jordan Hall boxoffice.

'Family Carnovsky' Will Return to N. Y.

"The Family Carnovsky," which will play its final Hub performance at the Copley Theater on Sunday evening, will play two performances in other New England cities before returning to New York's Yiddish Art Theater where it originally played for four weeks. The New York demand for a return engagement has induced the management to cancel a scheduled road tour.

JVA Praise for 4-H Winners

Alice Hale, Tryingham, and Raymond Haluch, Ludlow, have been awarded educational scholarships of $50 each for outstanding dairy work on 4-H Clubs, scores of whose members are enrolled in the Junior Victory Army.

Eight others have been awarded special trips to Mass. State College at Amherst during 4-H Week next summer. They are: Raymond Wheeler, Peru; Benjamin Flint, East Mansfield; William Marshall, Georgetown; Ruth Davenport, Shelburne; Gilbert Porter, Westfield; Jean Wood, Cummington, William Totman, North Easton and William Houghton, Hingham.

Miss Hale owns three Ayrshires and two Herefords. She belongs to the Hopbrook 4-H Dairy Club and last summer did all the horse raking of hay, peddled milk on her father's route and kept records.

Raymond has been in 4-H work for 10 years. He owns six dairy animals and two beef animals. His record shows an income of about $2000 from 4-H activities.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to Junior Victory Army headquarters, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Next JVA story is Friday's Record

Vessie Expected to Set Record in B. A. A. Jump

By JACK CONWAY

BILL VESSIE, Dartmouth, who first gained athletic fame while at Columbia, is favored to win the high jump in the B. A. A. games at the Garden on Saturday night. Des Wadsworth predicts Vessie will do six feet eight inches or better. If he does, he will establish a new record as the mark for the B. A. A. games is six feet six and a half inches and was chalked up by George Spitz.

Vessie will have some top competition. Among the jumpers who will try to defeat him will be Dave Albritton of Dayton, Fred Thackery of the New York A. C. and Johnny Williams of the Army.

George Spitz

Vessie won the high jump at the Millrose games with a leap of six feet six inches.

There was a time when six two to three inches was considered good for a high jump. There has been a big improvement in this event. It is almost a certainty that Spitz' mark of six feet six and a half inches will be broken.

The pole vault, one of the most colorful events on the card, will have Jack De Field of Minnesota, Milton S. Padway of the Army and J. G. Pulliam of Dartmouth competing. De Field is the favorite.

Potato Race Novelty

In a search for a novelty, the B. A. A. committee decided to stage a potato race. It will feature service teams, and it should furnish the crowd with thrills and laughs.

Dez Wadsworth will personally place the potatoes on the course, and he promises not to burden any of the athletes down with too much weight.

I am eager to get a glimpse at Claude Young of Illinois. This 17-year-old youngster is the fastest human in the world, according to Tom Kanaly. Young will compete in the 50-yard dash and is expected to win.

Young first attracted attention last summer when he won the national junior 100-meter race. In that event he proved he was as fast as a bullet. In the Millrose games, Young got off to a poor start, picked up his field and went on to win.

Track experts agree that Young is the outstanding dash man in the country. In addition to being a great sprinter, he is also a football player. Before going to Illinois, he was a crack high school halfback.

The first of the 300 athletes who will compete in the B. A. A. games will arrive in Boston tonight. By tomorrow night most of the stars will be quartered here.

Interest is running high in the meet and it is expected that it will attract a capacity crowd.

JOHNNY MORAN, director of publicity at the Raynham dog track, writes from Miami, Fla., as follows:

"Weather conditions have improved so much as to be really ideal now. And with the ideal weather we find a considerably increased tourist population and much interest in things sporting. Both the horse and dog tracks are playing to capacity houses and handily exceeding all previous records in mutuel handle. And as was the case in New England last summer the real increase in handle comes in the $10.60 play with the two and five dollar play remaining just about as it was the previous season.

Murray in Miami

"GREYHOUND racing here has taken a tremendous leap upward in both attendance and handle. The West Flagler Kennel Club is the front runner with Miami Beach following close behind. Reports from Jacksonville indicate a much increased business in that sector and the same is true at St. Petersburgh and Tampa. Even Orlando shows improvement over its last year of operation with West Palm Beach remaining about the same though there is some slight indication that an improvement will eventually result.

"Russ Murray has been here for about two weeks, primarily due to the serious illness of his mother but secondly to look into the booking situation for Raynham Park this forthcoming season. To the keen pleasure of all concerned his mother has taken a decided turn for the better since his arrival and is now comfortably ensconced in her home at Coral Gables where Russ spends almost all of his time with her.

"What gave him the greatest amount of pleasure during one of his trips for the greyhound tracks was the victory of Thies and Thies' K. C. Byers in a four-dog match race at West Flagler, over the great Gypsy Band, Fern Nature and Time Bomb. K. C. Byers is distinctly a development of the Raynham track for it was there he first made his feature race start and there most of his development was perfected. Gypsy Band has been going great guns here, winning 17 or 21 starts, but this one was no match for K. C. Byers in the special. The latter overhauled Gypsy Band in a great stretch drive to win going away."

Newton Trackmen Face Tough State Meet Foes

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Although it's listed as the 27th annual State Meet at the Garden Saturday afternoon, it will actually be another quadrangular affair between Newton, Boston English, Medford and Boston Latin in Class A competition in the final big track and field affair of the indoor season for the schoolboys.

Defending champion Newton (that team is in again) will be forced to stave off the bid of Coach Bill Ohrenberger's Blue and Blue outfit as in the recent Northeastern runnings and it's a good guess that the Orange and Black crew will fail this time.

At least, that's the hope of Coach Ohrenberger although his confidence in his team, deflected in the Huskies' games, has not yet come back to its usual peak. He's quite concerned about the condition of his crack 600-yarder, Jack Farrell, a second place winner (behind Ed Wyman of Newton) last season and slated to move up to take brackets this winter. It's a question if Farrell will be in top physical condition to move into the winner's circle.

Farrell kept English in the running in the Northeasterns with his fourth place points while running a gallant race, his first competition of the season, in the 600. It was in this event that Newton tallied eight markers, the actual factor that whipped the Ohrenbergers.

Farrell has been out of school this week with a cold, so that now he's working out a bit on the light side. If he can get into top condition for Saturday, English High's pre-season favoritism will be re-established.

There'll be one new event in the state meet that was not contested in the Y, the standing broad jump, but with James Briggs leaping to 9 feet, 5 inches in practice, Coach Ohrenberger has cast aside his worries in this. The winning distance last year was a 9.6½ and it wouldn't be surprising if Briggs topped this if pressed.

Of course, Ohrenberger will be depending on his other boys to come through in their specialties. Court Ellis will be counted on to contribute 10 points in the high jump and the hurdles; Fran Murphy must donate five in the dash and Ronald Conant will have to break into the scoring in the 1000.

The relay team, probably the same quartet which tied the Northwestern mark (Murphy, Farrell, Ellis and Conant) will be facing Newton's group which also tied the Huskies' record. And it wouldn't be the least bit surprising if this program wind-up carried the final decision on the eventual winner of the meet.

It's going to be that close!

Lazzeri Replaced

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP)—Mike McNally, business manager of the Wilkes-Barre Barons of the Class A Eastern League, announced that Jack Sanford will succeed Tony Lazzeri as manager of the ball club.

Sanford, a resident of Lakewood, N. Y., will be a playing manager. He was with Jamestown of the Pony League last year and with Batavia of the same loop the season before. He started with Wilmington of the Interstate and since played with Richmond, Aznesville, Little Rock, Birmingham, Los Angeles and Baltimore.

Larkin Go Votes Told Garden Fans

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (AP)—The New York state athletic commission has started a boxing innovation that soon may become a universal practice—thata of announcing from the ring how each judge voted.

The idea was tried out last night in Madison Square Garden at the Tippy Larkin-Lulu Costantino 10-rounder which Larkin, a 13 to 5 favorite, won easily. After announcer George Kobb had reeled off over the public address system how each official voted, everyone asked his neighbor how he liked it.

It was the general opinion among ringsiders that it was a good thing. Severan pointed out that each official, knowing his vote would be publicly anounced from the ring, would tend to be extra careful.

Gen John Phelan, chairman of the commission, and Promoter Mike Jacobs asserted that the practice would be followed at future Garden bouts.

As for the fight itself, it was one-sided with Larkin entertaining the crowd of 11,535 (gross gate $31,914) by using Constantino as an animaated punching bag.

Larkin, who forfeited a $1000 bond by failing to make 137 pounds, used his longer reach and sharper punching powers to good advantage.

Miami Work Fun For Princequillo

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP)—The mystery horse of the winter is the Irish-bred Princequillo, whose unorthodox training methods have thrown the clockers at Hialeah into a dither.

The 126-pound top-weighted candidate for the $25,000 Widener Handicap, which wraps up the Hialeah season March 4, gallops daily around the track but he runs for the fun of it and rival trainers have had no opportunity to check his speed.

Horatio Luro of the Boone Hall plantation stables is responsible for the general bewilderment. He has decreed a regime of lazy lopes for the sleek bay 4-year-old, who crossed the Atlantic to become the "storybook" horse of 1943.

The colt has yet to run against the clock in his morning trials here.

Half Milers Map Maryland Races

BALTIMORE, Feb. 10 (AP)—Four of the State's half-mile race tracks plan to conduct their normal 10-day meetings this year, subject to the approval of the State racing commission.

The tracks involved and the proposed racing dates are: Hagerstown, July 11-15 and July 18-22, inclusive; Bel Air, July 26 to Aug. 5, inclusive; Marlboro, Aug. 23 to Sept. 2, inclusive; Cumberland, Aug. 23 to Sept. 2, inclusive.

Of the four only Bel Air did not hold a 1943 meeting. A fifth Maryland half-mile oval, Timonium, has been idle for two years because of Army occupation of the grounds.

Nagurski Top Line Buster

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 (INS)—Bronko Nagurski, line cracker for the Chicago Bears and star of the University of Minnesota, is the greatest football player Harold "Red" Grange has ever seen.

"Yes," declared Grange, now engaged in the insurance brokerage business in Chicago, "Nagurski was the greatest and toughest I've even seen."

He pointed out that he was sticking to players he has seen in naming the Bronk as his number one gridiron pinup boy.

Grange went even further and picked his all-time backfield and the greatest coach. He selected Bob Zuppke as the coach. "His genius was in his personality, his ability to keep a team up without the boys realizing it," Grange said.

On his backfield he named Dutch Clark, one-time pro star, at quarterback; Tommy Harmon of Michigan and George McAfee of Duke and the Bears as halves; Nagurski at fullback.

How about the "Galloping Ghost," as "Red" was known in his heyday, on this "all" team? Well, Red is too modest to put himself on such a team, but there aren't any other observers who would keep him off it.

Mort Cooper Wants $17,500 for 1944

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10 (AP)—Morton Cooper, star pitcher of the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals, joined his teammate, third baseman George Kurowski, in expressing dissatisfaction with contract terms for the 1944 season.

He declined to say what he received last year, except that it was more than $10,000, but he was not backward about stating his demand for the coming season—$17,500.

White Badly Cut, Terror Wins Bout

After each had gained a fall, the Golden Terror was declared the winner over Ed (Strangler) White in the wrestling bout at the Arena after one minute and 19 seconds of grappling for the odd fall when Referee Steve Passas halted the match because of a severe cut on White's forehead.

Jack Claybourne and George Linehan wrestled a 30-minute draw, and Dr. John (Dropkick) Murphy and Manuel Cortez did likewise. Santor Szabo tossed Al Tucker in 10:52.

Local Battlers At Mechanics

Tommy Murray of New York, will be returning to the Hub's Mechanics Building tomorrow night for his third meeting with Sammy Garcia, Quincy, in one of the 10-round features of the 40 rounds of boxing to be presented by the Goodwin A. C.

It's possible that this lightweight match may steal this show but Murray and Garcia will have to be at their best to do it. For they'll be running in opposition to meetings between Pat Demers, Brockton, and Francis Leonard, Taunton; Bill Tordiglione, North End, and Dave 'Golden Boy' Andrews, Lowell; and Wilfred Shanks, Montreal middleweight who fought a draw with Sonny Horne, and Johnnie Jones, Revere.

Demers and Leonard will be raising the old question of the slugger vs. the boxer. The two fought to a draw in their tussle last month.

Frick, Frack Still Follies Hit

You've heard about Sir Walter Raleigh, who won fame and fortune by tossing his coat into a mud puddle and bending low at the waist.

Now meet a couple of gents who made good bending the other way and possess the strangest coats seen in New England in a long time.

They are Frick and Frack, the back-bending kings of the Ice Follies of 1944, which opens at the Boston Garden on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15, for a two-week engagement.

For this internationally known comic team perform astounding feats on the ice, which have the audiences gasping with amazement one moment and convulsed with laughter the next.

Loveday, N E Star, May Battle Alsab

By HORACE WADE

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 10—Alsab is striding strongly along the comeback trail. The sore-legged son of Good Goods, who so dismally disappointed at Narragansett Park last fall, is doing everything asked of him in morning canters, and Trainer Sarge Swenke reports him coming back to the stable kicking and playing. Alsab's main objective this winter is the $25,000 Widener Cup, and from the looks of things he need only be a shadow of himself to spread-eagle his field.

WATCH HITCH IN STEP

Just a year ago Whirlaway was the "observed of all observers." The pride and life of Ben Jones' existence was then treading the high road to glory, although keen early morning clock punchers reported a disturbing flaw in his matchless pace. That wrinkle in an otherwise smooth stride finally headed him for the toboggan.

A year later we find Alsab in much the same category. If he continues to train kindly, he will find those $25,000 Widener gleanings a hefty boost to all-time money winning laurels, a goal for which his owner and trainer are optimistically striving.

It's that hitch in his tep railbirds are constantly watching for, yet ever hopeful of not finding. When an outraged Nature sends in her bill it writes finis to many a great career, and if Alsab hauls down the curtain this winter it will be really regrettable, in view of the dearth of thoroughbred talent.

It would not occasion too much of a shock if Alsab's keenest contention in the Widener came from another "has-been"—one of New England's most popular mares, Loveday.

Few representatives of the distaff side created so great a furor on the Yankee turf as this aging daughter of Petee-Wrack. Hey dynamic stretch challenge will ever remain verdant in the memory of New England racegoers who learned to thrill to that last moment rush which carried her from the sweaty ruck to the gold and glory of the winner's ring.

TRAINING SOUNDLY

Loveday has broken down twice from the same ailment—a chopped ankle bone which placed her on the sidelines for much of her career. She overcame the difficulty two years ago to snare handicap after handicap from the best in the land, including a pair of stakes at Suffolk Downs.

Returned to the shelf with a rebreak of the thin ankle bone, she is again training soundly for Bill Flemming and has shown enough stretch-running ability in her only local start to insure her a starting berth in the Widener.

Racing historians will be able to scribble another vivid chapter if Alsab and Loveday battle it out through the stretch next Widener Cup afternoon.

In such an event, the land of the bean and the cod will be torn between twin emotions. Alsab will control respect because of his storybook beginning, as well as his victory over Whirlaway in that never-to-be-forgotten match race at Narragansett Park. Loveday will solocit no less respect and admiration for her own gameness and courage against overwhelming handicaps.

It should be a corking race—provided both remain sound and in trim throughout the Hialeah Park meeting.
